If you apply using this paper form

Please read the information pages carefully. Pre-pay through ImmiAccount before posting your application to the Department (see page 26).

Step 2 Check that you meet the residence requirement (see pages 2–3)

Step 3 Learn what it means to become an Australian citizen (see page 3)

Step 8 Await notification of the Department's decision (see page 9)

Step 9 Attend a citizenship ceremony and make the pledge if required (see page 9)

You must be in Australia when the Department of Home Affairs (the Department) makes a decision about your application except in certain, limited circumstances described in Step 2 – Residence requirement.

Integrity of application

The Department is committed to maintaining the integrity of the visa and citizenship programs. If you or a third party acting on your behalf provide, or have provided in a previous application, false or misleading information or documents (either knowingly or otherwise), this application may be refused. In addition, you may be prosecuted under the Migration Act 1958 and/or the Australian Citizenship Act 2007. If information or documents are found to be fraudulent or misleading after you become an Australian citizen, you may be prosecuted and may be subject to revocation of your Australian citizenship.

Step 1 – Eligibility

You should use this form if you:

- are aged 60 and over – you need to show you understand the nature of your application, and make the pledge of commitment at a citizenship ceremony.
- have a permanent or enduring physical or mental incapacity at the time you apply, and this incapacity means you are not capable of sitting the citizenship test to demonstrate one or more of the following:
  - an understanding of the nature of the application, or
  - a basic knowledge of the English language, or
  - an adequate knowledge of Australia and the responsibilities and privileges of Australian citizenship.

  If this applies to you, you may not need to sit the citizenship test or make the pledge of commitment at a citizenship ceremony.
- have a permanent loss or substantial impairment of hearing, speech or sight at the time you apply – you need to show you understand the nature of your application, and make the pledge of commitment at a citizenship ceremony.

If you belong to any of the above categories, you will also need to:

- be a permanent resident, and
- satisfy the residence requirement, and
- be likely to reside, or to continue to reside, in Australia or to maintain a close and continuing association with Australia.

You should also use this form if you:

- are 16 or 17 years of age – you must be a permanent resident when you apply and when a decision is made on your application. You must have spent sufficient time in Australia to show that you have:
  - an understanding of the nature of the application
  - a basic knowledge of the English language, and
  - an adequate knowledge of the responsibilities and privileges of Australian citizenship at the time of decision.

  You must also be likely to reside or continue to reside in Australia, or maintain a close and continuing association with Australia.

or

- are under 16 years of age – you must be a permanent resident when you apply and when a decision is made on your application. You also need to be living with:
  - a responsible parent who is an Australian citizen, or

© COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA, 2026

– a responsible parent who is not an Australian citizen and you would otherwise suffer significant hardship or disadvantage

Your application form should be signed by the responsible parent you live with.

or

- are an unaccompanied humanitarian minor – if you are an unaccompanied humanitarian minor and you are a ward of the Minister, then your application requires the consent of the Minister's delegate.

  If you are an unaccompanied humanitarian minor and you are not a ward of the Minister then your application requires the consent of your responsible carer.
- were born in Papua before 16 September 1975, had a parent who was born in Australia, as it is now known, and that parent was an Australian citizen at the time of your birth, or
- were born outside Australia to a former Australian citizen who lost their Australian citizenship under Australian law before 4 April 2002 when they acquired the citizenship of another country, and the loss occurred before you were born.

Applicants who are eligible to apply under these categories may not be required to demonstrate some of the general eligibility requirements for Australian citizenship, including sitting the Australian citizenship test. Before applying on this form, check your eligibility at immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/citizenship/become-a-citizen. You should attach documents to support your application. If satisfactory evidence is not provided, the application may be refused. See Supporting documents on pages 6–7.

Good character

If you are 18 years of age and over, you will need to show you are of good character.

New Zealand citizens

Special eligibility conditions apply for certain New Zealand citizens holding:

- a Special Category visa (SCV), or
- a New Zealand stream Skilled Independent (subclass 189) visa and their New Zealand citizen family members holding a Skilled Independent (subclass 189) visa.

See New Zealand citizens on pages 9–10.

Children

Children under 16 years of age can be included on a responsible parent's application form. If both parents are applying for citizenship, include children in one responsible parent's application only. Any child included in your application must be a permanent resident at the time of application and time of decision. You must be the responsible parent of any child included in your application and under policy it is expected that children included live with you. You may be required to provide evidence that you are the responsible parent. There is no cost for children under 16 years of age applying on the same form as a responsible parent.

Children are also able to apply in their own right. A responsible parent must consent to and sign the application. Fees apply. For more information about eligibility and how to apply, see immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/citizenship/become-a-citizen/under-16

Under the Australian Citizenship Act 2007, you are the responsible parent of a child if:

- you are the child's parent, unless a Family Court order has removed your parental responsibility
- the child is to live with you under a parenting order, whether you are their parent or not
- you have parental responsibility for the child's long-term or day-to-day care under a Family Court order, whether you are their parent or not
- you have sole or joint guardianship or custody of the child under an Australian or foreign law, including by adoption, operation of law, court order or otherwise.

Children 16 or 17 years of age will need to complete their own application. Fees apply. For more information about eligibility and how to apply, see immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/citizenship/become-a-citizen/persons-16-or-17

Step 2 – Residence requirement

The residence requirement is based on the time you have lived in Australia and the time you have spent outside Australia. The Residence Requirement Calculator can help you calculate whether you meet this requirement and is available on the Department's website immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/help-support/tools/residence-calculator

General residence requirement

To meet the general residence requirement, you must:

- have been living in Australia on a valid Australian visa for 4 years immediately before the day you apply, which must include the last 12 months as a permanent resident, and
- not have been absent from Australia for more than 12 months in the past 4 years, including no more than 90 days in the 12 months immediately before applying.

Changes to the permanent residency commencement date apply for certain New Zealand citizens holding:

- an SCV, or
- a New Zealand stream Skilled Independent (subclass 189) visa.

See New Zealand citizens on pages 9–10.

Special residence requirements

Special residence requirements may apply to you if:

- you are seeking to engage in specific activities of benefit to Australia such as participation as an athlete in an Australian Olympic team, or
- you are engaged in particular kinds of work for a total of at least 2 years in the past 4 years, that required you to travel outside Australia.

Additional documents should be provided to meet either of these special residence requirements.

For more information see Special residence requirements applicants on pages 10–11.

Note: If you have spent time in prison or a psychiatric institution by order of a court in the 4 years immediately before making your application, that time during which you were confined cannot be counted as residence in Australia.

Defence service requirement

You meet the residence requirement if you have completed relevant defence service, which is if you:

- were appointed, enlisted or transferred into any of the permanent forces or reserves of the Commonwealth of Australia, and
- have served for a total of at least 90 days in the permanent forces, or
- have served for a total of at least 90 paid service days in the navy, army or air force reserve, or

- were discharged from defence service as medically unfit for service as a result of that service.

If you are a member of the family unit of a defence person you meet the residence requirement if:

- the defence person was granted one of the following visas on or after 1 July 2007: Labour Agreement (Migrant) Class AU, Labour Agreement (Residence) Class BV, Employer Nomination (Permanent) Class EN, Regional Employer Nomination (Permanent) Class RN, and
- you were included as an applicant in the visa application of the defence person and were granted the same type of visa at the same time, and
- you still hold that same visa, and
- the defence person has completed relevant defence service or dies while undertaking that service.

Ministerial discretions

There are a number of ministerial discretions which may be applied to an application to assist a person to meet the residence requirement for Australian citizenship.

1. If you were in Australia as an unlawful non-citizen during the 4 years immediately before making your application and it was as the result of an administrative error, then that period of time may be treated as a period of lawful residence in Australia.
2. If you were in Australia as a lawful non-citizen but not as a permanent resident as the result of an administrative error, then that period of time may be treated as a period of permanent residence.
3. If you were in Australia as a lawful non-citizen, but not as a permanent resident during the 12 months immediately before application, then that period of time may be treated as a period of permanent residence if you would otherwise suffer significant hardship or disadvantage.
4. Time spent in prison or a psychiatric institution by order of a court in the 4 years immediately before making your application may be counted as time in Australia if your conviction has been quashed.
5. If you are the spouse or de facto partner of an Australian citizen, or surviving spouse or de facto partner of an Australian citizen at the time you make your application, and you spent time outside Australia as a permanent resident in the 4 years immediately before making your application, you may treat those periods of absence as time in Australia if, during each period of absence:
   - you were the spouse or de facto partner of that Australian citizen, and
   - they were an Australian citizen, and
   - you maintained a close and continuing association with Australia.
6. If you spent time outside Australia as a permanent resident in the 12 months immediately before making your application, as the holder of an interdependent visa and your interdependent partner was an Australian citizen during your periods of absence, you may treat those periods of absence as time in Australia if you had a close and continuing association with Australia during those periods of absence.

If you do not provide evidence to support your claims at the time you lodge your application, processing of your application will be delayed.

Step 3 – Learn what it means to become an Australian citizen

It is important that you understand what becoming an Australian citizen involves. The Australian Citizenship: Our Common Bond resource provides useful information and is available on the Department's website immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/citizenship/test-and-interview/our-common-bond

Step 4 – Original documents

You should provide the Department with a range of documents to prove that you are who you say you are and to establish you have not had any serious criminal convictions. These documents are called identity documents and good character documents.

When applying for a Ministerial discretion to enable you to meet the residence requirement, or for a concession fee, you should provide additional documents – these are called supporting documents.

If you have to get documents from overseas this can take time.

You will not be able to complete the application process without these documents.

Translations

Provide an English translation for all documents that are not in English.

You need to provide the:

- original document
- English translation.

If you do not provide English translations of non-English documents, this may delay your application.

In Australia, you should use a translator accredited by the National Accreditation Authority for Translators and Interpreters (NAATI). For more information, see www.naati.com.au

Translators outside Australia do not have to be NAATI accredited.

Every translation should include the translator's:

- full name
- address and telephone number
- qualifications and experience in the language they are translating.

Provide all translator details in English.

Certified copies

Unless specified that original documents are required, certified copies of original documents should be attached to your application. These documents should be certified by a person with the correct authority. See Certifying documents – list of professions on page 11 for people who can certify documents. Further information on certifying documents is available on the Department's website immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/help-support/applying-online-or-on-paper/on-paper/certified-copy

If you need to provide overseas penal clearance certificates, you should provide certified copies of the certificates.

Identity documents

Applicants 16 years of age or over

You should provide identity documents for yourself and all children included in your application.

For yourself, you should provide the following documents.

1. Three original documents that collectively show your:
   - photograph
   - signature
   - current residential address
   - birth name, date of birth and gender.
2. Proof of change of name, if applicable.

If you do not provide these documents, processing of your applications will be delayed.

   - birth name, date of birth and gender

Circumstances when an application cannot be approved

If any of the following circumstances apply to you your application for Australian citizenship cannot be approved:

- your identity cannot be verified.
- you are not in Australia at the time of decision on your application and have applied for citizenship under the provisions for incapacity, a hearing, speech or sight impairment or are aged 60 or over. (If you have an Australian citizen spouse or de facto partner the decision maker may use a discretion to approve your application while you are outside Australia.)
- it is less than 12 months since you last ceased to be an Australian citizen.
- there is an adverse or qualified security assessment in place in relation to you, or you have been convicted of a national security offence.

Criminal offences

If you are 16 years of age or over, the Department will request a Nationally Coordinated Criminal History Check (NCCHC) from the National Police Checking Service (NPCS).

If any of the following circumstances apply to you, your application for Australian citizenship cannot be approved:

- when proceedings for an offence against an Australian law (including proceedings by way of appeal or review) are pending.
- when it is less than 2 years since you were released from prison after serving a prison sentence of 12 months or more, or 10 years if you are a repeat offender.
- you are subject to certain conditions set by an Australian court (such as being released on parole, good behaviour or bail) where action may be taken against you for breach of those conditions.
- you are in prison or a psychiatric institution by order of the court at the time of decision.

Good character

If you are 18 years of age or over, you will also need to be assessed under the good character requirement.

Convictions

You must tell the Department about any convictions you may have had in Australia or overseas.

A conviction is a criminal charge leading to a guilty verdict in a court of law resulting in imprisonment or a fine or good behaviour bond. A traffic infringement, such as an on-the-spot speeding or parking fine is not considered a conviction.

If any of the above apply to you at the time you lodge your application please call the Citizenship Information Line.

Spent convictions

You must declare spent convictions in your application.

The spent convictions law allows people with minor convictions to disregard those convictions after a certain period of time. A conviction may be considered spent if:

- it is 10 years since the date of the conviction (or 5 years for juvenile offenders), and
- the person was not sentenced to imprisonment for more than 30 months, and
- the person has not re-offended during the 10 years (or 5 years for juveniles) period, and
- a statutory or prescribed exclusion does not apply.

The Department is allowed to ask you for this information for the purpose of assessing your application.

Please refer to and read the information regarding spent convictions at immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/help-support/meeting-our-requirements/character/character-requirements-for-australian-citizenship

Overseas penal clearance certificates

Overseas penal clearance certificates, or police checks as they are known in some countries, show whether a person has a criminal record.

You may need to provide an overseas penal clearance certificate as part of your documentation if you are 18 years of age or over.

Note: If you were born in Australia and are stateless, you are not required to provide overseas penal clearance certificates with your application. We may ask you to give us an overseas penal clearance certificate in other circumstances.

When to provide overseas penal clearance certificates

Penal clearance certificates from overseas countries should be provided if:

- you lived or travelled outside Australia since turning 18 years of age, and
- you held a permanent Australian visa at that time, and
- the total time spent outside Australia adds up to 12 months or more, and
- the time spent in any one country was 90 days or more, or
- requested by the Department.

If you were born to a former Australian citizen or born in Papua before 16 September 1975, penal clearance certificates from overseas countries should be provided if, in the last 10 years:

- you lived or travelled outside Australia since turning 18 years of age, and
- the total time spent outside Australia adds up to 12 months or more, and
- the time spent in any one country was 90 days or more.

We may ask you to give us an overseas penal clearance certificate in other circumstances.

Penal clearance certificates from New Zealand

If the above applies to you and New Zealand is one of the countries where you spent time, you do not need to give us an overseas penal clearance certificate for New Zealand. We will request this directly from the New Zealand Ministry of Justice (NZ MOJ) for you. Do not contact the NZ MOJ as we do not accept overseas penal clearances from New Zealand that are provided by applicants.

New Zealand citizen – Special Category Visa (SCV) holders

If you are a New Zealand citizen who holds an SCV and have spent any time outside Australia since turning 18 years of age, you should provide us with an overseas penal clearance certificate from any other country you have visited or stayed in for 90 days or more. This applies to you regardless of how long you have resided in Australia. For New Zealand citizens who acquired citizenship by grant, this includes the country of usual residence before you migrated to New Zealand.

You do not need to give us an overseas penal clearance certificate for New Zealand as we will request a penal clearance certificate directly from the NZ MOJ for you. Do not contact the NZ MOJ as we do not accept overseas penal clearances from New Zealand that are provided by applicants.

How to get an overseas penal clearance certificate

You can get a penal clearance certificate from a country's government or law enforcement authority.

Step 8 – Wait to receive notification

When a decision is made on your application, you will be notified in writing.

You must tell the Department if you change your address, and in some circumstances your application cannot be approved if you are outside Australia.

If your application is refused

If your application is refused you may have the right to ask for the decision to be reviewed by the Administrative Review Tribunal (the Tribunal). Your letter of notification will advise you where you can lodge an application for review. You should lodge your application with the Tribunal as soon as possible.

Step 9 – Attend a citizenship ceremony

After you have received notification that your application has been successful you may need to attend a citizenship ceremony and make a pledge of commitment to complete the process of becoming an Australian citizen.

Usually, your ceremony will be held within 6 months of your application being approved.

If your children are under 16 years of age, they are not required to make the pledge but are welcome to attend a ceremony. They will become Australian citizens when you make the pledge.

If you are required to attend a citizenship ceremony, you must attend your ceremony within 12 months of your application being approved otherwise the decision to approve your application for citizenship may be cancelled.

If you have not been contacted about attending a citizenship ceremony within 6 months, please call the Citizenship Information Line for advice.

You are not required to attend a citizenship ceremony or make the pledge of commitment if you:

- are under 16 years of age, or
- have a permanent or enduring physical or mental incapacity, or
- were born to a former Australian citizen, or
- were born in Papua, or
- were stateless when born in Australia.

Passports and travel

You will be able to apply for an Australian passport once you have attended a ceremony and made the pledge. For information on Australian passports visit www.passports.gov.au You should travel out of and into Australia on your Australian passport.

New Zealand citizens

When you apply, you must hold either a permanent visa or an SCV. New Zealand citizens holding an SCV are considered permanent residents for citizenship purposes.

To be eligible to apply you must:

- have been living in Australia on a valid visa for 4 years immediately before the day you apply,
- have held a permanent visa or an SCV, for the last 12 months immediately before the day you apply, and
- not have been absent from Australia for more than 12 months in the past 4 years, including no more than 90 days in the 12 months immediately before applying.

Note: If you are an SCV holder, you continue to be considered a permanent resident for citizenship purposes while outside Australia, provided you held an SCV immediately before your departure.

Children of New Zealand citizens

Children born in Australia to New Zealand citizen parents may already be Australian citizens (unless their parents were entitled to diplomatic privileges) if they were:

- born between 24 November 1952 and 19 August 1986, or
- born on or after 20 August 1986 and were ordinarily resident in Australia for the first 10 years from their birth, or
- born between 1 September 1994 and 26 February 2001 and their parent held a permanent visa or an SCV, or
- born on or after 27 February 2001 and their parent held a permanent visa, or
- born between 27 February 2001 and 30 June 2022 and their parent:
  - was in Australia on 26 February 2001 on an SCV, or
  - was in Australia for at least 12 months on an SCV in the two years before 26 February 2001, or
  - was issued with a Centrelink certificate stating they were resident in Australia on a particular date, or
- born between 1 January 2022 and 30 June 2023, prior to the grant of their parent's New Zealand stream Skilled Independent (subclass 189) visa, and this visa was granted between 1 January 2022 and 30 June 2023, or
- born between 1 January 2022 and 30 June 2023, prior to the grant of their parent's Skilled Independent (subclass 189) visa, and this visa was granted to their parent as a dependent applicant on their family member's New Zealand stream Skilled Independent (subclass 189) visa between 1 January 2022 and 30 June 2023, or
- born on or after 1 July 2022 and their parent held an SCV.

Children born in Australia between 26 January 1949 and 23 November 1952 to New Zealand citizen parents may be Australian citizens even if their parents were entitled to diplomatic privileges.

If the circumstances described above apply to you/your child, you/they may be eligible to apply for Evidence of Australian citizenship. More information can be found on the Department's website immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/citizenship/certificate/get-a-certificate#Eligibility

Note: New Zealand citizens who arrived in Australia prior to 1 September 1994 are considered exempt non-citizens. Children born in Australia between 20 August 1986 and 31 August 1994 to a New Zealand citizen who was an 'exempt non-citizen' generally did not acquire Australian citizenship by birth.

New Zealand citizens holding an SCV

For citizenship purposes, if your SCV was granted:

- before 1 July 2022, we consider you to be a permanent resident from 1 July 2022, or
- for the first time on or after 1 July 2022, we consider you to be a permanent resident from the grant date of this visa.

The above:

- also applies if you were outside Australia on 1 July 2023 and last held an SCV or Special Purpose Visa (SPV) as an airline crew member or airline positioning crew member immediately before last leaving Australia, but

To meet the general residence requirement when you apply for Australian citizenship, you must:

- have been living in Australia on a valid Australian visa for 4 years immediately before the day you apply, and
- have held a permanent visa or an SCV for the last 12 months immediately before the day you apply, and
- not have been absent from Australia for more than 12 months in the past 4 years, including no more than 90 days in the 12 months immediately before applying.

New Zealand citizens holding a New Zealand stream Skilled Independent (subclass 189) visa and their New Zealand citizen family members holding a Skilled Independent (subclass 189) visa

You do not need to have held this permanent visa for 12 months before applying if the below applies to you.

For citizenship purposes you are eligible to apply for Australian citizenship from 1 January 2023 if you were granted this permanent visa:

- between 1 January and 31 December 2022 as we consider you to be a permanent resident from 1 January 2022, or
- on or after 1 January 2023 as you are eligible to apply for Australian citizenship from the visa grant date.

To meet the general residence requirement when you apply for Australian citizenship, you must also:

- have been living in Australia on a valid Australian visa for 4 years immediately before the day you apply, and
- not have been absent from Australia for more than 12 months in the past 4 years, including no more than 90 days in the 12 months immediately before applying.

Special residence requirements applicants

You may apply for Australian citizenship under one of the following special residence categories if you meet all other eligibility criteria for citizenship, including sitting the citizenship test and the good character requirements, if you satisfy one of the following two requirements.

1. Seeking to engage in activities of benefit to Australia

You are seeking to engage in a specific activity listed below, need to be an Australian citizen to engage in that activity, and have insufficient time to satisfy the general residence requirement.

2. Engaged in particular kinds of work requiring regular travel outside Australia

This category may apply to you if:

- you are engaged in particular kinds of work listed below at the time of application and for a total of at least 2 years in the past 4 years, and
- you were required to regularly travel outside Australia for that work during the four-year period.

Kinds of work
